

Would-be immigrants wait on a Frontex ship for Greek authorities to move them in a police station, at Piraeus port near Athens

Would-be immigrants wait on a Frontex ship for Greek authorities to move them in a police station, at Piraeus port near Athens June 12, 2011. Immigrants from North Africa landing at Piraeus Port after EU's border protection forces (FRONTEX) detained their ship with 93 people south of Crete island on Saturday. Greece is one of the main conduits used by illegal African and Asian immigrants looking to enter the EU. REUTERS/John Kolesidis (GREECE – Tags: CRIME LAW POLITICS SOCIETY) – RTR2NKZ7